Gaelscoil Raitfeirí - Sensory Woodland Trail - Cosán na Coillearnáí Céadfach – Márta 2021

Incorporating the senses into the parks design:

One good example of this would be to have an interactive area with native plants which are known to attract insects such as ladybirds and butterflies. Signage could be placed which would indicate what species of butterfly/ladybird you may see in this area. Ladybirds often prove more difficult to find, even in the right setting so this may also provide a challenge/task to people. Butterflies on the other hand are easier to spot and would be a fun activity for all. The best flowers to plant for both butterflies and ladybirds are:

Many of these flowers can be found in common wildflower mixes which are relatively low in price and easy to come by. These can also be planted in a variety of soils and so are not a limiting factor. All of the plants are also safe to touch thus providing a sensory aspect to this area.

- Aster
- Calendula
- Cornflower
- Cosmos
- Dianthus
- Lavender
- Michaelmas Daisy
- Rudbeckia
- Verbena
- Yarrow

My Sadness on the Bus

I get the bus everyday,
But I wish I was walking today.
I see the birds from the window,
As happy as one could be,
But I look on with sadness.

I see the flowers and the leaves,
Swaying in the beautiful wind.
Blue, pink, yellow and white flowers
It's amazing,
But I look on with sadness.

CLIMATE CHANGE

---

Greta Thunberg

Greta Thunberg, who is sixteen years old, is a Swedish environmental activist on Climate Change. Greta has 'Asperger's Syndrome', 'OCD' and 'Selective Syndrome' and that basically means that Greta only speaks when she thinks it's necessary. Greta only found out about Climate Change when she was just eight years old and she was really confused why so little was being done about it. Three years later she got depressed and stopped eating. Greta also convinced her parents to be vegan.

In late 2018 Greta began to do climate strikes and public speeches. She misses time off school, and, while her mother and father aren't too happy about that, they understand that the world needs to change.

What is Climate Change?

Climate Change means the world is getting hotter and hotter. It doesn't mean much, does it? It actually will do a lot to the world if we don't make a change!

What causes Climate Change? Whenever we plug in our devices, turn the light on, whatever. We are slowly affecting our planet! It's not just us, though. Gas and oil is affecting it too! It's making the world slowly but surely get hotter and, if the world gets hotter, icebergs will melt. Then, the water from the melted icebergs will flood the sea! It will flood countries so that means your home or town may be destroyed! They say Westport will be flooded in a hundred years if we don't make a difference. That is only one of the big problems. Bees are becoming endangered and Coral Reef is now ruined.

What can we do to stop Climate Change? Well, for a start we should plant trees. Trees give plenty of oxygen and oxygen helps the world. Trees are being chopped down for money and there will not be much oxygen in the world if this continues. You can buy plenty of tree seeds online for a very good price. Another thing we should do is to save electricity. Whenever you are leaving a room, it's best to turn off the light, as there is no good reason for it to be on. During the day there is no need for the lights to be on at all. And at night we sleep so there also no need for the light to be on. The only time you need the night is really before you go to bed and in the evenings, when it is dark. One of the reasons why the sun is here is to give light! The best thing to do to prevent Climate Change is to get solar panels. They may be expensive, but once you have them, you don't have to get them again. They are becoming a very popular choice now, so that is great because they are great for the environment!

Overall I think Greta is a very good person, despite what people think about her. She is very inspiring and I don't know why people hate her so much. She is only trying to help the world. Yes, she was a little overdramatic. But that doesn't mean to hate her!

I really enjoyed writing this essay.
